"We Will Be There"

"... We were there when the Spanish galleons sailed for Plymouth. We were on those bloody fields in the Netherlands when Louis XIV aimed at the domination of Europe. We were on duty when Napoleon bestrode the world like a demigod. We answered the roll-call, as you did, in August, 1914. And if the challenge should come again, we will be there. We can do no other. So help us, God." There is no uncertainty in these ringing words from Britain's former Prime Minister, spoken in Toronto, and heard over the radio Saturday evening by people in all parts of Canada and the United States—and it may be hoped as well in those countries whose predatory policies constitute the new threat to free government in Europe and the world at large.
Nor is there any room to doubt that what Earl Baldwin said is what the people of Great Britain mean to do about the occasional demand.
Mr. Baldwin had a conference with Prime Minister Chamberlain before he sailed for Canada. Perhaps it was to say this to him. At any rate he would not have said it without knowing that it embodies both the resolution of his countrymen and the intention of their government.
The question for Canadians, and for citizens of every other country who go themselves and intend to go on doing so, is plain: Will we also be there?

They Can't Ignore Japan

Russia cannot afford to forget Japan, nor to risk getting drawn into a war in Europe with Japan's allies unless assured that Britain and France will fight for it in the Orient. Hence Chamberlain's military alliance applying to both areas.
Neither can Britain and France afford to forget Japan, and the menace its policy of conquest is carrying to the doors of their eastern possessions and dependencies. No more than Russia can they defend Humana and Greece at the price of giving Japan an opportunity and excuse to extinguish their interests in China and grab her far eastern territories.
A community of interest argues for the military alliance Russia is asking for, distasteful as that undoubtedly is to a large section of the people in Britain, and a section in France, also. This disinclination is not due wholly to the fact that Russia is under a communist regime. It is based partly on recollection that Russia failed these allies in the world war, and suspicion that she would do so again.
Of the two this is probably a greater obstacle to a new alliance than British and French antipathy to the communist creed or fear that Stalin would try to use the alliance to spread the creed in those countries.
International politics also "make strange bed-fellows". The combination of Naz Germany and Fascist Italy with feo-dal Japan is a case in point. And this may lead to the equally curious alignment of communist Russia, and the democratic powers.

80 Cents Plus Acre Bonus

A gathering of farmers at Taber, addressed by representatives of the Grain Growers and the U. F. A., adopted resolutions asking for an initial price of 80 cents for wheat of the 1939 crop, and proposing that as a permanent policy an acreage bonus be paid in crop-failure disasters of $2.50 per acre up to a maximum of 200 acres per farmer.
If the 80-cent initial price were also payable on a fixed maximum number of bushels per farmer, there would be a basis here for a compromise policy that would stabilize western agriculture and business during the long-term adjustment that is inevitable in western farming.
An 80-cent guaranteed price up to, say 2,000 bushels per farmer, is a reasonable proposition. That would not tend to perpetuate "wheat mining," as the grower who produced more than that amount would have to sell at whatever price the market offered. The inducement would rather be to seed some land to other crops, and develop other branches of production as and when that is practicable.
And the difference in cost between the 80 cents proposed and the 80 cents asked for would not be serious if the amount of wheat on the guaranteed price had to be paid upon the 2,000 bushels per farmer.

The acre bonus is the fairest of all ways to extend relief in drought districts, since the bonus could only be obtained if a crop was sown and failed to materialize.

Reasons For Confederation

While nothing was said about secession, Hon. Charles Dunning told parliament 143 million reasons why there is no practical danger of the western provinces breaking away from the Dominion. Since 1920 that many dollars have been loaned by the Dominion to these four provinces to help them pay part of the cost of relief; in addition to the millions the Dominion has contributed outright for the same purpose.
If they had not had the federal treasury to draw upon, the four provinces would have had to raise this 143 millions by additional taxation or borrow the amount and add it to their debts, besides raising or borrowing the money the Dominion has voted to them as relief grants.
While the Dominion has continued to function as a tax-collector for the provinces, as well as a source of grants-in-aid, there is no danger of these provinces trying to separate themselves from it.

Of this total, Manitoba has been loaned 25 millions, Saskatchewan 61 millions, Alberta 26 millions, and British Columbia 32 millions. All that Saskatchewan has said the interest on the loans to date; which is to their credit, because if they had paid hard enough the charges would likely have been forgiven. That the provinces will ever pay back the principal is doubtful; but the Dominion continues to function as a tax-collector for the provinces, as well as a source of grants-in-aid,
there is no danger of these provinces trying to separate themselves from it.

The Dominion has been an open-handed friend and a generous creditor to the provinces in their time of need. In the interests of truth, fairness and national unity that fact deserves candid recognition.

Editorial Notes

The unbelievable surely happened when a member of the London Guild club took off "on his own" and soared across the English Channel. Gliders had made the crossing before, but they had all been towed aloft by airplanes and thus given a "flying" start. The birds will have to look to their laurels.

Another epidemic of school-burning and bombing has broken out in the Duke honor communities near Nelson—or the perennial epidemic has flared into action again. If Mr. Stalin can get along without Peter III, perhaps the sooner he comes to Canada the better. Either the regiment is not being obeyed or he ought to be locked up.

How the Tariff Works

Dr. A. M. Young, of Saskatoon told the House of Commons he paid $120 for a car in Saskatoon and found that the retail price of the same car in a United States city just across the border was only $80. The freight between the two cities was $100, and the remaining difference was due to the tariff and excise charges and the difference between the sales tax on the factory price in Canada and on the import price of individual cars, that is, on the retail price in the United States. With the complete duty free, the car was between 28 and 29 per cent.
Most people have not realized that the automobile manufacturers were not entitled to a great deal more protection than they were supposed to be getting. Their protection against United States manufacturers was not 17 1/2 per cent of the latter's price, but 17 1/2 per cent of retail price in the United States, which is a very different matter and increases the protection to one-half or more. Then why do protests in Parliament about taking away any of the protection of the Canadian automobile industry? It will still have a more actual protection than it is entitled to, if the 3 per cent excise tax is cancelled, as long as Canadian prices are based on the cost of importing individual cars and not on the price of the duty on those prices—Winnipeg Free Press.

Why Not Shoot the Major?

With a disregard for human life that might have been meritorious in an old soldier had it applied to his own, a retired major in the United States army has suggested that a good way to get rid of some of the poverty in his country would be to kill the poor. All his suggestions have been proposed to a body called the Washington Society for Philosophical Research that aged persons—those over 70 or 80—should be shot.
Not means of relief should be humbly sought to lighten the relief burden. Why humbly?
Not since the day of olden times in the British Islands, perhaps, has such a theory been proposed. Swift suggested the slaughter of the poor as the price of an ill-judged and misguided satire on the treatment of the poor poor in his own day. He was taken seriously, and his satire largely defeated its own ends. But his Major Edward L. D. Moore, retired, is not satirical; it is just jestishness.
His theory applies only, of course, to the aged who pose a problem. He suggests that he did not say that was to determine who was useless, but doubtless he himself would be on the committee that gave the decision. There may be found those who suggest that a man who can propound such a theory is worse than useless and that he might, with definite benefit to the community, be shot. It is to be shot even though he be rich and not yet 70. This tainted conception of the purpose of creation and the value of the individual is a most serious germ to the community than all the asylums for the aged on the continent.

The argument major says that he realizes that "many religions were against" his theory. He may rest assured that a great number of people who are not religious at all would be against it. Any religion that would have loved his mother would be against it—Montreal Star.

Appalling Waste

The Banking and Commerce Committee of the House of Commons under the chairmanship of William H. Moore, has been in session the last few weeks, and information is being brought out from the committee that the waste of money in the government is of a most appalling kind.
The committee has been considering the Canadian pound.

The last few years, or ever since the depression began, our country has been going in debt on an average of about 100 millions a year, until we have piled up upwards of a billion dollars in new debt, and under the present system we are following we are in no better position to pay our debts than when these larger increases started to accumulate. The waste of money in the government is a great producing machine. We had wonderful productive power, but instead of using it to produce goods for export, we have been paying bills, we simply ignored the great resources of the country and issued deferred interest bearing orders, i.e., bonds, demanding that those who come after us, i.e., our children, should pay the bills, plus interest, and that is the system we have been following now for nearly a century.
Where do we stand today? Our wants are as great as ever. In a country like Canada our climate expects a fair standard of living. Taxes are steadily growing so confiscatory that standards of living are being lowered; men have lost their jobs, and dissatisfaction is being spread.
The unnecessary interest bill that we have piled up in the last ten years, amounting to several million dollars a month, must come out of the taxpayer. Surely the will has come to call a halt on such a system.
Wealth is the antidote to debt, but instead of directing our wealth to the production of goods, the implements of production go idle to a great extent, and pay our bills with interest bearing orders that is enslaving our children in a form of bondage.
Today the wastage in this country has reached a colossal hemorrhage, amounts to at least a million and a half dollars for every working day of the year. It consists of idle men, idle power and idle machines. Although Canada is rich in natural resources, we cannot stand such a hemorrhage which is taking place right under our eyes year in and year out. If this national waste were reversed, we could produce 800 million a year in new wealth. This wealth could not only pay the interest on our debts which we have accumulated, but it would pay the taxes, and the relief to the taxpayer would be enormous, for interest on our debt is the biggest item in any tax list.

To go on as we are there is no hope of solving the unemployment problem, as unemployment will increase both at the top and bottom of society. At the top, the few who are rich will be more and more people living on the proceeds of debt; at the bottom of society it will increase as the poor are more and more impoverished.
The duty of the government is to stop this waste now, what hope is there for the taxpayer under such circumstances? Surely with all the information we now have, we should be able to realize that the time has come for a

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWLEY

Many exploits of British submarines in the world have never been made public. Only within the last month has the story been told of how a single torpedo drove the German Baltic fleet out of that sea. You'll find the story told in detail—with much other interesting material—about submarine exploits in Lieut.-Commander N. P. M.
Edwards' newly published book "We Dive at Dawn."

The first British submarine to enter the Baltic was E 1, commanded by Lieut.-Commander N.
P. Laurence. She passed through the defenses and started operations in the Baltic on Oct. 17, 1914. In company with E 9, on Oct. 17, 1914, Commander Max Horton, the E 1 did valuable work in interrupting the munitions traffic between Sweden and Germany.

At 8:10 in the morning of August 19, 1915, Commander Laurence with the E 1 was patrolling the entrance of the Gulf of Riga. Visibility was poor, but at a distance of two miles, Laurence sighted the German Baltic squadron, and the battle cruises steaming fast in line abreast.

E 1 had only one bow torpedo tube, but ten minutes after sighting the enemy Laurence fired his iron fist at the Seydlitz—the starboard wing ship of the enemy squadron. He had time to drop the enemy Laurence and get in a second shot from a beam tube, to prevent being rammed by one of the escorting destroyers.

The torpedo missed the Seydlitz, crossing her bow, but hit the next ship in line—the Möldeflügelier her forward torpedo room and killing eight men. Immediately the Mölde was hit, Admiral von Hipper turned the entire squadron and sped for Danzig. The Mölde shipped 400 tons of water before the damaged section could be pumped out and was out of action for a month during repairs.

Operation of the Baltic squadron was suspended. Two days later an imperial order instructed the vessel of the High Seas fleet to encounter the Baltic. Very good results from one torpedo.
Commander Laurence is now Vice-Admiral.
Sir Noel Lawrence, in command of the reserves.

Another informative book, though cast in fiction form, is "La Guerre Sous-marine" (The War Underground) by Commander Verdon of the French Navy. It deals largely with the Maginot Line—that marvelous network of defenses to protect France from further German aggression.
It is a masterpiece of the imagination.

THE TALE of the man army in time of peace during previous alarms. Roads leading from Germany into France are now guarded by the mine. With the pulling of an electric switch they are blown sky-high together with every man and machine that comes within the attack. While reserves are mobilizing, gunners of the permanent defenses fire great guns ready trained upon the roads the enemy must use.

Like the novels of his compatriots, Jules Verne, the book is a masterpiece of the imagination.

the future, and the outline of mechanism.
One feels that the book conforms to principles laid down by the French general staff.

While Commander Verdon portrays the Maginot Line as invincible, the German army being finally broken back with heavy losses, he points out the several dangers and weaknesses—the danger of sabotage by enemy spies, danger from fog in the valleys and the handicap of defense in the morning, when the gunners must aim into the glare of the sun.

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELIAS

Said the layman, addressing a great congregation, and turning to the group of clergymen on the platform: "If you are a Modernist, you are a heretic; if you are a Fundamentalist, you are a heretic; but you are the worst heretic of all if you have the spirit of the man who prayed:
"Lord, bless me and my wife; for I am a Modernist and a Fundamentalist." Use four, no more, Amen."

"That narrow and selfish conception of religion is a denial of the whole spirit and teaching of Jesus. Unless there is room in your creed for all sinners after God in Christ, it is a narrower creed than the Bible. You belong with those disciples whom Jesus rebuked for their exclusive views."

Master of the multitudes, Christ of the Cross, set our hearts in a great and unselfish love. Spare us the mark of the beast, which is Number Six.

Show Edmontonians Just How the Game Should Be Played

Five hours more Edmonton fans saw table tennis played as it should be. They were watching Lancel Bellak and Tibor Hazi, international stars, who were performing at the Tivoli ballroom last night under the auspices of the Edmonton Table Tennis Association.

Bellak and Hazi, both Hungarians, have won some of their skillful play with the celluloid ball all over the world. Bellak is the holder of 100 national and international titles and was former world open doubles champion and United States singles champion. Hazi also has a sparkling record, and was once world finalist in the international series and is among the first 10 ranking world players.

The exhibition these two stars gave was a real treat for the fans. Throughout their performances they drew many rounds of applause and when they had completed their performance all were well satisfied that they had seen a really clever exhibition.

TRICK SHOTS GOOD
Unusual trick and spin shots, in which Bellak featured, highlighted the program. Bellak was exceptionally clever as he put spin and curves on the little celluloid ball. He had complete control of the ball, often, making seemingly impossible shots.

Bellak drew his greatest applause when he stepped out of the ring in playing area. He went behind the crowd, cut loose a drive which curved over the crowd's heads and the ball took a dizzy spin on the table and then popped over the net just as if he had made his shot. The crowd, of the table, was amazed.

Ryan's Horses Step

These are great days out on the Mickey Ryan farm on the St. Albert trail where Bob Bug, superintendent of the farm and trainer of Mickey Ryan's big dogs and trotters is putting the young ones through their paces. In these pictures is shown (1) Bob Bug giving Dale Guy, a two-year-old with great possibilities, an easy workout, and in (2) Mickey himself giving Little Boy, the 208 pacer, a jog around the track he has laid out on the farm. Dale Guy is a son of Peter Guy by Cloverdale and is a corner. He is turning into a big strong horse and will be sent to Toronto for the 1940 meet. Mickey Ryan took over the stable which Jack Calhoun, veteran Edmonton hotel-keeper got together, and is adding to the string.

WE ARE WELL TO SPORT by PAUL GALICO

Slaves of the Mortgage

THE colleges are apparently rigged to try any way out of their dilemma except the obviously decent and honest one. They brought the dilemma—that of the huge, unpaid-for stadiums and athletic plants—upon themselves by greed, but they will not admit it or change to meet new conditions.

One large southern university, disgraced with its obvious hypocrisy of the double-barreled eligibility rules, put the screws on. No more tramp athletes. Any student of good scholastic standing and a decent character was to be admitted. But in the meantime there was a steel and concrete bowl and like new field-house to be paid for, and so it is still scheduled games with the big high-pressure semi-professional teams from colleges that are not handicapped by such needless feelings, and the kids take a mauling—in pay for the stadium. That does not strike me as being exactly high-minded either.

Another great and powerful university in the heart of a great city built its stadium out of bonds purchased by the small investors of that city, the tailor, the carpenter, the plumber, and the delicatessen store owner. To default on those bonds would be a civic catastrophe and scandal. The university must fill that great arena two or three times a year. To do so it must put on the field football team capable of competing on even terms and winning against the best in the country.

There is only one way of getting

THE SNOOKER POOL VICTORY Topping 100 is a much more difficult feat in snooker pool than breaking 100 is at golf. When Earle Berryhill of Sapulpa, Oklahoma, cleared the table to score 117, he achieved what usually is a once-in-a-lifetime feat for even the best snooker pool players.

His opponent broke the balls, after which Berryhill cleared the table without a miss.

BEE'S TRAVELS FOR HONEY: Bee experts have estimated that a bee would have to make at least 20,000 round trips averaging two miles each to gather enough nectar to make one pound of honey. The honey-gathering trips would total 40,000 miles.

Fette's Six-Hit Twirling Gives Boston Bees Victory

BROOKLYN, N.Y., April 25.—Behind the six-hit pitching of Lou Fette, Boston Bees whipped the Dodgers 4-1 Monday, handing Van Mungo a defeat in his first baseball start since last August.

The tenacious fireballer gave up only five hits in the eight innings he worked, but three of them were bunched in the second when he bled the cleanup hitters.

One of Mungo's side-arm curves hit outfielder Al Simmons in the head in the third inning and knocked him out. An x-ray examination was performed to determine the extent of his injury.

not in any way share. They are supposed to take a week in proximity to the Hollywood movie queens for their end and like it. Well, some of the kids have done better than others. The cheating, petty politics, backscratching, and maneuvering that goes on in the Hollywood movie industry is a necessary by-product of the business.

ROYAL CLUB
Negotiations for some weeks between the new club and the old club and the Royal Club with a view to an amalgamation of their lawn bowling interests have now been very satisfactorily completed.

At a re-organization meeting of the new club held on Friday evening of last week, R. G. Reid, as chairman of the negotiating committee, submitted a very full report of what had been accomplished and the successful lines of negotiation, he stated, with the anticipated large increase in membership among well known lawn bowling associations yet at the greens in the legislative building grounds.

The following officers for committee were appointed for session 1939: President, Robert Buchanan; Vice-President, Al. Peart; Secretary, Wm. McCulloch; Treasurer, W. H. Thomas.

Committee Messrs. R. T. Allwood, W. A. Boyle, James Little, A. B. Mackenzie, John Martin, Fred Rogers, R. G. Reid, H. R. Schell, Don Collier, and R. S. Snellie.

The greens will be opened for play on May 24, and there will still a number of vacancies in membership to be filled, any bowler desiring to associate himself with the club can obtain full particulars by contacting any member of the committee, whilst any person desirous of taking up the game as a beginner will be welcomed and all facilities placed at his disposal. All applications for membership should, if at all possible, be in the hands of the membership committee before May 30.

Cubs Cop Home Opener
Chicago Cubs opened their home season auspiciously before 15,000 fans Monday by whipping Pittsburgh 6-2 for their third victory in four games.

Earl Whitehill limited Pirates to six hits in seven innings.

Stanley Black pitched Chicago with Triple and two singles while Phil Cavaretta and Ed Bartell hammered out two doubles each.

Two Wins for Tommy DETROIT, April 25.—Tommy Bridges, veteran right hander, rang up his second pitching triumph at Detroit Monday as Detroit Tigers defeated St. Louis Browns 4-2.

Bridges allowed but six hits in seven innings.

Felding lapses by his teamates permitted both St. Louis runs.

Sox Walked To Win
CLEVELAND, April 25.—Fifteen bases on balls walked Chicago White Sox to a 9-3 victory over Cleveland Indians in the season's opener Monday.

Johnny Allen made his first league pitching appearance for the Sox at an hour and 10 minutes on the shelf last summer. Johnny Humphries first walks walked the Sox in a shortening season-long lead. Tom Drake replaced him that night and handed out 19 free tickets himself before giving way to Allen in the seventh with two out.

Allen was walked for one run on a double, single and error in the ninth.

COURT HEARS BOYCOTT FOR TOBACCO FIRM

Witness Says Action Followed Offer of Discount For Cash

Offer of a two per cent discount for cash made in 1939 to western Canada where jobs were being lost. Macdonald's Incorporated was followed by a boycott of their products. T. H. Cavendish, president of the firm, testified Tuesday at the preliminary hearing of charges against manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers and retailers before Magistrate A. J. Miller, K.C., Tuesday morning.

Mr. Cavendish, who is president of T. H. Cavendish & Co., testified that jobs were lost because of the discount but could not say that it had resulted in the establishing of the jobs. He said that the company's products were marketed through a regular company agent and he was not conversant with sales made by their western representatives who would be coming to the boycott.

He was of the opinion that the policy of discount for cash was a good merchandising one.

He said that the Alberta agent to the November 1933 order of marketing price maintenance agreement, he said, had resulted in the company's products being sold at a price of 98 cents in the Quebec area, and also the discounting of premiums in favor of playing cards.
